

Problem

Problem

It's imperative that you keep your escape routes clear!

If you have difficulty in keeping your designated means of escape route and areas of importance clear due to inconsiderately placed objects such as empty boxes, old stock & general day to day items, the solution is here.

Best practice and the law requires that exit doors, escape routes and fire fighting and emergency equipment locations remain unobstructed at all times. You know how difficult it is to keep drumming that message into employees. It is now a legal obligation for them to help you reduce risk. Safety signs have a training and refresher function to supplement safety procedures and are proof of a safety system.

Solution

The above illustration shows typical behaviour of some employees despite the nature of the doors and equipment obscured by these obstacles. With the floor mounted keep clear sign(s) installed such eventualities could be avoided by the clear and concise message relayed by the sign in both normal and power loss situations.

Manufactured on Jalite SB photoluminescent material boasting exceptional luminance performance which exceeds the required industry standards

Activated at low lighting levels making it ideal for warehouses, which may contain lighting installed at high levels.

Technology

The new Jalite SB self adhesive photoluminescent material is based on Jalite AAA photometric properties with the added benefit of sub-surface printing technology, giving maximum durability and comprehensibility, a must for floor signs.
